

Thank you for attending the webinar Social Justice: Responding to Social Inequalities with Social Pedagogy. It was a fantastic and inspiring event that invited us to be more reflective and critical. For those of you who couldn't make it, we will upload the video to our YouTube channel next week!

The screenshot shows a Zoom meeting in progress. The top half displays a grid of 25 participants in a gallery view. The bottom half shows a presentation slide titled "Top tips for a happy and healthy life from families" with four bullet points and an illustration of a family. The Zoom interface includes a top bar with recording status, a right sidebar with participant list and chat, and a bottom toolbar with various controls.

Top tips for a happy and healthy life from families

- Environment – “Get out every day and keep active.”
- Play and activities – “Make time for play – that includes adults too!”
- Security – “Build a routine that looks after the whole family.”
- Connection – “Check in and chat with your support network.”

Your Top Tips for Health and Happiness

Build a new routine that looks after the whole family - including you!

Routines got disrupted - so it was time to create new ones. You said “find me-time” by taking turns with other family members” and “plan things out the day before”.

Vital Inequality

Linked to human health and well-being.
Can be seen in the health and well-being inequalities between different groups in society.
Current example- Covid 19 deaths in people of colour and ethnic communities.
Research showing in East London Asian patients 49% more likely to die 30 days after admission.
Black patients 30% more likely to die.
Non white British – 54% more likely to be admitted to ICU.
(Wan, 27/1/21, The Conversation)

Existential Inequality

Linked to the social factors of people's lives such as race, gender, class, sexuality, disability etc.

Current research-

Who comes into care and where? The intersection of ethnicity and deprivation (Dr C. Webb, 2020, University of Sheffield)

- Children in poorest 10% of UK 10x's likely to be care experienced. 12x's likely to be on a CP Plan.
- Black African children have higher rates of care experience no matter level of deprivation.
- Mixed heritage children are 2x's more likely to be care experienced the higher the level of deprivation.

Material and Resource Inequality

Relates to your ability to develop or have access to social capital.

It is more than just not having your basic needs meet.

Current example –

Food packages for children receiving Free School Meals. Inadequate food parcels with no choice given to parents on how to feed their children.

Limited ability to participate in the everyday experience of shopping.

Paulo Freire – Dehumanising Humans

Freire's theories and ideas around the connection between inequality and oppression and how the powerful 'dehumanise' the socially excluded are important.

- 'Dehumanising' people seen 'objects',
- Feel less or no empathy or sympathy towards them.
- Little care given if they receive poor treatment, are abused or denied participation in everyday life,
- Denied the 'good life'.
- Deeply internalised sense of worthless and so have little self-esteem or positive self identity.

A Social Pedagogical Approach

- Use collaborative practice - work alongside – respect and understand differences.
- Use of Lifeworld Orientation to understand 'lived experience' and impact of inequality.
- The use of relationships to build capacity and self-efficacy so people who are 'objects' can become empowered to take on and change structural inequalities.
- Think about the way we communicate- use horizontal and dialogical communication, be aware of the power of language and the position of power in our relationships with each other.
- Use the Common Third to engage in activities that help develop equal relationships and be willing to give up power and control and learn alongside somebody.
- Be human and show your flaws – The 3P's
- Use your social position to help amplify people who are being 'dehumanised' and seen as 'objects' and help them to be heard.

CHAT CONVERSATION

Social Pedagogy: Responding to Social Inequalities with Social Pedagogy

- The way people give up most of their power is by thinking we don't have any - WE DO!
- We need to keep shouting about the reality of inequality and educate people and challenge the lies push by the government and media".

Money + creativity + freedom + empathy = social transformation

Strong haltungs get us through

- Not forgetting to fight for children with behaviour issues. These children are always classified as NAUGHTY, but what we should release is that every behaviour of a child is a form of communication and not label them.
- Absolutely behaviour is ALWAYS communication!
- Indeed, and every behaviour is driven by an emotion
- it's the figuration of the evil child!!!
- How can we "shine a light" on that? to encourage everybody to be curious and critical about what behaviour is trying to communication - even if the actor doesn't yet know.
- It's exploring the voice of the child, looking from aspects outlined by UN conventions on the rights of the child, behaviour is their voice as well as their actions. Yes, labelling isn't the way forward, its allowing children's voices to be heard however it's expressed. Every child matters and our duty as parents/practitioners is to ensure children and young people know their value, that their heard, they matter, loved and to put in place the necessary safeguards or provisions necessary for their care"

Radio 4 had a two hour programme a few months back on the origins of the fork, and how it has morphed from being a primitive dining 'stabbing tool' to becoming an essential thing which modern western parents will discipline their child if they do not use / hold properly. The assumptions and meaning-making about eating habits, and the social aspect, are a fascinating point.

Make sure we don't fall into the trap of feeling that enough has been done. Ensure we keep fighting and having uncomfortable and necessary conversations with colleagues, friends and family (on a personal level) that work to help ourselves and the people we interact with to stay awake, active and accountable through periods of major social change.

“I feel that the most important action I can take as an individual is to keep having the conversation”.

-Absolutely. <<https://nomoreexclusions.com/>> is a group of young people who have been excluded from schools fighting against it. They have joined with CARE to mount a legal challenge to the government about this 'anti-capitalist' policy change.

-Great - a dialogical social practice based on dialogue and mutual transformation is the utmost Freirean principle

- I personally not no agree with school exclusion

- All these exclusions are to due the fact that, the children's voice aren't heard before taking actions.

- I will work towards creating a food cooperative in my area

- I would like to create/access an "intro to" social inequality & social pedagogy training for my team

- Is there scope for a radical practitioner and carer group (in the social pedagogy direct practices) or are educators to be understood in its widest sense here?

- it's educator in its widest sense!

THANKS AND FEEDBACK

Thank you, very informative

Excellent presentation Lowis and indeed a great paper

Thank you Cecile for helping to highlight the need for critical thinking! So important to help us all move forward respectfully.

Thank you so much but I am sorry I have to leave now but some great presentations - thanks for sharing everyone

Thank you for all the presentations I need to go now

you i need to go now very great presentation

Also need to excuse myself as I have a meeting Good to see everyone! Very interesting and curtail themes during these times!

Unfortunately I will have to go, thank you for this wonderful conversation and for the lovely presentation!

That was a really good discussion, too short! Unfortunately I have to jump off into another meeting, thanks everyone, lovely to see you, great presentations!!

Thank you for the session. Have a good weekend!

really interesting and helpful webinar, taking lots away - sorry but I've got to go now, but thank you so much lots to include in our place based approach to a system wide prevention of child abuse and neglect

Thank you, i'm totally inspired !

Thank you <3

Thank you for this great webinar!

This has been so inspiring, thank you very much

Thank you - this has been fantastic

Thanks so much, very inspiring.

Thank you to all the speakers and organisers. Although, as a non professional and newby to this area of discourse (&zoom webinars generally!), not confident to contribute, as a past care user, I found this really informative, particularly Cecile's insights and the discussions regarding behaviour as communication seem to me a real crux of so many societal problems, and it's so encouraging to see so much dedicated energy and collaboration around these themes, taking place.

I've got some great reading on SP to do, so thanks again :)

I'm currently studying BA Hons Working with children & young people: Social Pedagogy. I welcome social network contacts, i enjoyed this session very much.
